Monthly Desert Locust Bulletin

issue 44

January

INTRODUCTION

No survey was conducted in the month of January 2010, but as actually we did we collected news from the travelers, came from the sides of the city especially the coastal areas and plateau areas and over the radios as we follow the current situation of the locust.

Locust situation

As far as we know the locust situation in Somaliland is clam we did not received any reports concern locust in every side of the country.

The Rain

no rains were fallen in the country after 3/12/2009 .After that period the weather of country become dried although there is a heavy cold which caused too much dews in coastal areas near the sea level, and heavy drought is existing the whole country.

The vegetation

The proportional of the vegetations are dry because there were no rains in that long period of time.

Soil moisture

Since there were no rains fallen in that long period of time the soils area dry except the small dews I have been mentioned above.

Forecasting

In the coming future we are expecting a weather will make a change and will come clouds will and built up so, if there will be that small dews receive a shower or an normal rains supporting it , it is sure that it can breed a locust simply.

Therefore, to conduct a monthly survey is necessary.
